Annual Giving Passes Half-Million Mark

Goal Topped By $28,000

The Annual Giving Drive has passed the half-million dollar mark for the first time in the College's history. The drive ended with gifts and pledges totalling $502,965.

The total is nearly $28,000 above the campaign goal of $475,000, and more than $62,000 above the $440,421 contributed last year.

The Annual Giving Drive, which is conducted between October and June each academic year, supports the College's operating budget, which was $8.5 million for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Contributions to the annual giving fund came from alumni ($287,631); parents ($109,581); business and industry ($65,416); friends of Trinity ($30,237); and non-corporate foundations ($10,100). Total gifts in each category were equal to or greater than the goals which were set when the campaign was planned.

Alumni gifts totaled 104 percent of the $275,000 goal, and were up about $39,000 from last year's total of $248,944. Parents made 115 percent of their $95,000 goal, and gave nearly $22,000 more than last year, when gifts totaled $88,099.

Of the 3,880 contributors, 31 percent, or 1,202, were new contributors. Eighty-four donors joined the Founders Society with gifts of $1,000 or more, and 637 made gifts between $150 and $999 to become members of the Anniversary Club.

"This is a milestone year for Trinity in many ways," President Lockwood said, "because it is the year the College reached its 150th anniversary. It is to the credit of our contributors and those who volunteered to work on the campaign that this year's gifts passed the half-million mark. Such support goes a long way in keeping Trinity among the leaders of small private colleges."

WIN AT HENLEY—Trinity stroked to a three length victory over Durham University in the opening round of The Ladies Challenge Plate at the Henley Royal Regatta. The Bantams were eliminated from competition the following day by the University of Wisconsin. (See story, page 12). WIDE WORLD PHOTOS.

5 CHARTER TRUSTEES RETIRE

Five Charter Trustees of the College, whose service on the board of trustees totals 92 years, retired from the board at the end of the 1972-73 academic year and were named Trustees Emeriti.

They are George M. Ferris of Washington, D.C., a trustee for 18 years; Glover Johnson of New York, 11 years; the Rt. Rev. Walter H. Gray of Hartford, 22 years; John R. Reitemeyer of Hartford, 23 years; and Raymond J. Wean of Warren, Ohio, 18 years.

Their retirement became effective at the end of a regular trustees meeting May 19.

Mr. Ferris, for whom Trinity's George M. Ferris Athletic Center is named, is a 1916 graduate of Trinity. He was elected an Alumnus Trustee in 1955, and a Charter Trustee in 1958.

Senior partner of Ferris and Company, a Washington investment banking firm, Mr. Ferris also provided endowment for the College's annual Ferris Lecture in Corporation Finance and Investments. The Ferris Athletic Center, a $2.4 million Complex, was opened in 1969.

He served in the Air Force during World War I, and in 1919 entered the securities business by joining S.W. Strauss & Co. In 1932 he founded his own firm. He is a former president of the Washington Stock Exchange and a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and a director of several companies.

He served as officer and director of several hospitals in the Washington area, is former chairman of the board of the National Cathedral School for Girls, and is a member of the board of Gallaudet College and president of the Columbia Country Club.

In addition to his service on the board of trustees, Mr. Ferris served Trinity as a member of the executive committee of the alumni association, 1937-39, was a junior fellow, 1946-48, president of the Washington-Baltimore Alumni Association in 1946, and area chairman of the Program of Progress in 1958.

He received the Eigenbrodt Trophy, the highest award of the Alumni Association, in 1964.

Mr. Johnson, a partner in the law firm (see TRUSTEES, page 2)

16 Faculty Promotions Announced; DeLong, Brewer, Stewart Appointed as Chairmen

Sixteen faculty promotions have been announced by President Lockwood including the promotion of Dr. John D. Brewer to chairman of the sociology department, Dr. Howard DeLong, who will also become a full professor, to chairman of the philosophy department, and Mr. Robert C. Stewart to chairman of the mathematics department.

In addition, Dr. Frank M. Child III will become a full professor of biology; Dr. Henry A. DePhillips, Jr., a full professor of chemistry; Dr. George C. Higgins, Jr., a full professor of psychology; Dr. Richard T. Lee, a full professor of philosophy; Dr. Chester H. McPhee, a full professor of physical education and Dr. Charles R. Miller, a full professor of physics.

Also included among the promotions were Dr. John Gettier, chairman of the religion department, to associate professor; George E. Chaplin, to associate professor of fine arts and director of the studio arts program; Dr. Francis J. Egan, to assistant professor of economics; Dr. Neil H. Garston, to assistant professor of economics; Dr. Thomas A. Reilly, to assistant professor of political science; Robert A. Cale, to artist-in-residence in studio arts and Jane A. Millspaugh, to instructor in physical education.

Dr. Brewer came to Trinity last year from Wesleyan University. He has also taught at the University of California (Los Angeles) and York University in Toronto, and is the author of several articles in his field.

Professor Stewart, a member of the Trinity faculty since 1950, succeeds Dr. Walter J. Klimczak, Seabury Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy, as chairman of the department. His major field of teaching is modern algebra.

Dr. DeLong, who has taught at Trinity since 1960, is the author of a book, "A Profile of Mathematical Logic," and an article, "Unsolved Problems in Arithmetic." He is a member of the editorial board of the journal, Social Science.

Dr. Child, who joined the faculty in 1965, previously taught at the University of Chicago, where he won the Quantrell Award in 1964 for excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Dr. DePhillips, chairman of the department of chemistry since 1971, joined the Trinity faculty in 1963. In 1969-70 he was visiting associate (see PROMOTIONS, page 3)

CAMPUS NOTES

Trinity was a participant in the Greater Hartford Festival of the Arts held in June. George E. Chaplin, director of the studio arts program, was represented with one of his "abstract landscapes," D. Mark Pappas, a junior, by two pieces of sculpture and Robert W. Starkey, a senior, with one of his graphics. Chase Twichell, a recent graduate, read some of her own verse. Milli Silvestri, assistant director of the new bureau, was a member of the "Industry Looks at Art" Committee and also acted as liaison for Trinity with the Festival.

An article entitled "The Duty to Reveal and to Conceal" written by Dr. Samuel Hendel, professor of political science and former chairman of the department, and Dr. Robert L. Bard of the University of Connecticut Law School, appeared in the May issue of "Change," a magazine of higher learning. Dr. Hendel is a member of the National Board of the American Civil Liberties Union and also on the ACLU Academic Freedom Committee.

Mrs. Paula I. Robbins, director of career counseling, attended the annual conference of the Northeast Region, Association of Advisors to the Health Professions, held at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa. She was re-elected secretary of the 250-member group and co-chaired a workshop on women in medicine.

Seventy-six students from across the nation were selected to study in Rome, Italy, this summer under a program sponsored by the College. The Trinity/Rome Campus, now in its fourth summer season, is open to students at other colleges, as well as Trinity students. The thirteen Trinity students in Rome are: Nicholas F. Brady, Jr. '76 of Far Hills, N.J.; Karen C. Doyle '74 of Garrison, N.Y.; Elizabeth B. Hess '75 of Haddonfield, N.J.; Roberta L. Johnson '76 of St. Clair, Mo.; Maurice R. Landry '75 of Springfield, Mass.; Camilla O. McRory '75 of Ashton, Md.; Katherine K. Miller '74 of Baltimore, Md.; Daniel P. Russo '73 of Hartford, Conn.; Amy R. Schaefer '74 of Several professors of the History Department are engaged in activities of their national professional organizations. Dr. Philip C.F. Bankwitz, is secretary of the Society for French Historical Studies. Dr. Norton Downs is assistant treasurer of the Medieval Academy. Dr. Glenn Weaver is one of the editors of the Trumbull Papers project at Yale.

Mohamed Jibrell, assistant dean for community life and lecturer, intercultural studies, and James Miller, assistant professor of English and intercultural studies, participated in the Fifth Annual Conference of the African Heritage Studies Association held at Morgan State College in Baltimore. The conference was attended by educators from the United States, Caribbean and Africa. Jibrell read a paper on "Social Change in the 19th and early 20th centuries in Somalia." Miller was elected to the executive committee of the African Heritage Studies Association. Jibrell and Miller were appointed as representatives of AHSA in the Connecticut area and have been included in a delegation to attend the Sixth Conference of the Association in December 1973 to be held at Addis Abbaba, Ethiopia.

Seven financial aid students will be studying at other institutions in the United States and abroad next fall under scholarships provided by the College. A new policy begun this year allows qualified students to take their financial aid with them when they study somewhere else for a semester. Purpose of the policy, according to Robbins Winslow, dean of educational services, is to allow students on financial aid to strengthen their major through foreign study.

One student next fall will be studying in Washington, D.C.; two will be in France; one in Freiberg, Germany; and three in Madrid, Spain.

Requirements for continuing financial aid under these circumstances include that the program of study be integral to the student's major field of study, and will offer significant opportunities not avialable at Trinity.

HONORED—With appropriate ceremonies, the College honored members of the faculty and administration who retired at the end of the past academic year and those who reached milestones of service. Left to right, front row: Mr. and Mrs. Penn Hargrove, Managers of the Book Store, retired; Mrs. Archer S. Jackson, Chief of Technical Services, Library, retired; Mrs. Sere Johnson, retired after 42 years of service; back row: President Lockwood; Dr. Eugene W. Davis, Professor of History, 25 years of service; Dr. Ralph M. Williams, Professor of English, retired; Charles Paul, Technician, Physics Department, 32 years of service; Dr. Robert H. Smellie, Professor of Chemistry, 25 years of service; John A. Williams, Manager, Central Services, retired.

Lockwood Names Attorney as Aide

Thomas D. Lips, an attorney formerly from San Francisco, Calif., has been appointed assistant to the president.

A native of Wilmington, Del., Mr. Lips is a 1966 graduate of Dartmouth College, and earned a J.D. degree from Harvard Law School in 1969. He served in the U.S. Army from 1970-71, in the Systems Analysis section of the Office of the Secretary of Defense. From May, 1972 through last April he was an attorney with the San Francisco law firm of Bronson, Bronson & McKinnon.

Lips

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Bar Association, the State Bar of California, and the San Francisco Bar Association.

Students Continue Scholarship Fund

Trinity students have voted in a referendum to continue the $15,000 scholarship fund for disadvantaged students. Money for the fund comes from the student activities fee.

Five Hundred and seventy-six students voted in favor of the proposal to continue the scholarship fund for two more years, when another vote will be taken.

The scholarship fund was started by students in 1969, to meet the student commitment to provide scholarships for disadvantaged students. The money is credited to the student scholarship endowment in the Office of Financial Aid.

Students also voted in favor of establishing a scholarship endowment fund which would eventually total $60,000.

John Heyl to Take Development Post

John L. Heyl '66, who was named alumni secretary in 1970, will become assistant director of development, effective October 1. He will replace Alfred M. C. MacColl '54 who has resigned to become assistant to the headmaster of The Rectory School in Pomfret, Connecticut.

Heyl

In his new position, Mr. Heyl will have responsibility for the Alumni Fund and Parents Fund in the Annual Giving Campaign.

A native of Philadelphia, Mr. Heyl graduated from Loomis School and, after receiving his B.A. from Trinity, did graduate work at Brown University. He taught for two years in Thomaston, Maine and, during the year before his appointment as alumni secretary, at the Hyde School in Bath, Maine.

Mr. Heyl succeeded John A. Mason '34 who now serves as assistant to the president for alumni affairs.

A UNIQUE CONTRIBUTION—Raymond A. Montgomery '25, who at 70 years is as spry as some undergraduates, spent 2½ weeks in early June painting the concrete shields on both sides of Downes Memorial Arch. His painstaking work, which involved hand-picking the ivy which had grown over the shields, was a "gift" he wished to contribute ever since he saw similarly painted shields in England. He researched the authentic colors for the shields, which included the Trinity College shield, the shield of Trinity College, Cambridge, the Tudor Arms and the arms of Henry III, which is pictured above. Using acrylic paints, he worked from a 20-foot aluminum scaffold. His project attracted TV and newspaper reporters, and headline writers had a grand time describing it. Some samples: "Grad, 70, Brushes Up at Trinity;" "Trinity Grad Rates 'High' in Devotion;" and "Painter Goes High on Trinity." NEW ALUMNI DIRECTORY

Alumni should by now have received a first or second request for the essential information required to assure publication of the Sesquicentennial Directory to be published in January of next year. We sincerely hope that everyone will reply to this request.

Publication will be handled by Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, Inc. of White Plains, New York. In the contract with the college, the firm assumes all financial obligations, including the compilation, editing, billing and distribution of the directory, and will cover its costs through the sale of advertising and individual book sales (to alumni only). All advertising will be sold subject to the approval of the college. This new plan will eliminate the normal sizable cost to the college and Alumni Association, and through its self-sustaining operation assure the compilation of a professionally completed volume.

The number of directories printed will be based on the number of advance orders received via the phone call, plus a limited number of copies for the college use only. No post-publication sale is planned.

The Harris Company is the Alumni Association's sole authorized agent for the production and marketing for the directory, which will be made available to alumni only and will assume all cost, profits or losses involved.

There is no charge to you for your listing—and full representation is essential. Whether or not you purchase a book, we ask that you comply with the information requested when you receive a phone call from the publisher.

LLOYD R. MILLER proudly announces his marriage to Mrs. Joseph Gray. They now live on Riverside Drive in Ogdensburg, New York where he has been active in the St. Lawrence Power Squad.

Your SECRETARY has been disappointed that more of you did not show up for the Immortals Dinner at the Hartford Club in May. It was a most delightful affair and Dr. Ted Lockwood and his very able staff with their wives, were most gracious hosts. His report on the progress of the college, particularly since the advent of the women students, was most interesting.

I trust that you are all interested in the "Friends of Trinity Rowing." You saw, I hope, in the UPI about the two Trinity crewman winning their second consecutive national title in the "pairs without coxswain" division, and the varsity 4-oar crew won the consolation with a second win over Princeton.

Well, the crews are at Henley on Thames now and need our support. Please send in something, your check to the Trustees, marked "Friends of Trinity Rowing." They deserve our enthusiastic support. Please continue to send me your news.

The Center represents a cooperative venture—the first of its kind in the nation—between the University of Southern California and the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons. More than 400,000 members of the two associations contributed $2,000,000 for the construction of the $4,000,000 building. The center will be staffed by the University. After a few days in California we flew to Hawaii. There seems to be a dearth of news from the class of '24. Cone on fellows, let's hear what you are doing in retirement.

WHEELER HAWLEY reports that he is still going strong and won't be ready to retire for another ten years at least. With two daughters in high school, he is still keeping his nose to the grindstone. He is still serving as a vice president of Pi Delta Phi, the French honor society, but hopes to pass on the chairman's job at Stanford University to a younger colleague next year.

26 Mr. N. Ross Parke

West Hartford, CT 06107

To all 18 of you Good Classmates, I want to thank you for your kind and thoughtful answering of our little questionnaire sent you a short while ago. You too, will be interested and pleased to learn that you have much more in common—and have shown good common sense in watching your diet—temperance in drinking, and learning to take exercise and hard physical work in sensible moderation, and in having your doctor check you now and then.

Keep up your good work—we're proud of you—congratulations!

It was especially fine to hear from "Doc" FRISBIE (Truscott System of Chiropractic) for the first time in 50 years. I am sure we all like it when he writes to say he is "an Americanist," adding "Under God." I'm sure we can commend this idea.

It was similarly fine to hear from DICK O'BRIEN who advises "Live and enjoy it—accept life as it comes and kick 'the dickens' (original word censored) out of it."

Good ole MAC writes: "If any of your 26ers get out this way, look me up. The only one I have seen in 50 years is good old "PITCH" and his very nice wife, Jean." If any of you can or are going to travel in the far West, please know that you will give great pleasure to Mac and his dear wife, Vera, by taking him up on his invitation to say Hello. The MCBURNEY'S address is APT. 315, 4700 176th S.W., Lynnwood, Wash. 96036. "Best to you, Old Crows."

KEN STUER reminds us, saying in effect, "Let's all get together on our 50th in 1976" which also is the 200th anniversary of our GREAT UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. Let's mark this important event and year on our calendars and in our memories—and then, let us plan to get together at Trinity.

It is great indeed to hear from you good Classmates and the very mention of the names of these Men who wrote in, will bring fond memories to all of us of 2T6. ED ANTOS R — JIMMY BURR NR — MATTIE DANN R — DICK FORD R — "DOC" FRISBIE R — The REV. FRED HICKS R — JACK LINNON R — MCBURNEY R — CHARLES MORHARDT R — REGGIE NEWSHOLE R — MORRIS ROISMAN R — BILL NICOL R — DICK O'BRIEN NR — The REV. FRANK PRYOR, III R — WALT RILEY R — MERRILL SHERMAN R — KEN STUER NR — DALE STEWART NR — A.R. AVITABILE R — HOWARD TULE NR — and ROSS PARKE NR

Perhaps it will be interesting to note, 4 out of the 18 are yet to retire. May you, your Loved Ones and All be ever blessed with good health and all good things. Keep up the fine work of helping yourselves and others all you can and God's Richest Blessings on you and all, as we of 2T6 extend our deepest congratulations to our GREAT ALMA MATER on the 150th Anniversary of TRINITY COLLEGE to whom we are eternally grateful for so much!

(ED. NOTE: The following items of interest arrived after Mr. Parke's newsnotes were received.)

FRANCIS J. PRYOR, rector emeritus, writes that he is still assisting regularly at "the old parish." A grandson, Francis J. Pryor V, was added to his family on April 6, 1973 at San Pedro, Calif.

The Rev. FREDERICK G. HICKS retired as rector of the Church of the Reedemer, Lorain, Ohio on December 31, 1972 and was presented with a 1973 Pontiac Catalina as a gift of appreciation. His present address is 2350 E. Water St., Apt. B-107, Tucson, Arizona, 85719.

A chatty, newsy letter from ERIC PURDON. Eric, whose current address is "Arden" Harwood, Maryland, (Don't ask your correspondent what that means. I don't know either.) has announced his retirement. Between his 20-odd (?) years with the Navy and the remainder in civil service, Eric has accumulated 30 years and retirement eligibility. Current plans sound rather impressive—a garden to combat rising food costs, sailing a ketch, (built for Eric last year in Nova Scotia), for charter as captain and starting another book. Hopefully this one will be reviewed by the Trinity Reporter. Eric reminisces about Louis Naylor and his kindness to him and Tom Cassidy during our penny pinching days of the thirtys.

Also joining the retirement ranks on June 30, is your SECRETARY, also with 30 years of VA, IRS and Army service. Plans are still indefinite with the exception of increased time on real estate sales with Hartwell Associates of Londonderry.

Daughter Barbara sent your correspondent a clipping showing OLIVER "BRUNCH" JOHNSON chatting with Economist James Howell. No explanation of this tete a tete but Ollie seems heavily involved with everything that goes on in Hartford.

Mr. Thomas L. Safran
3333 West 2nd St.
Building 56 - Apt. 202
Los Angeles, CA 90004

This month I'm reporting from Washington, D.C. where, as I promised in last month's column, I've gotten in touch with several of our classmates.

The first week I was here I had lunch with DAVID DOWNES who's still working for ACTION where he heads up the Department of Policy Development. By the time that you read this column David and his wife, Will, should be back for another tour of duty in the South Sea islands where they had originally met. Dave said that he's still in contact with GEOFF WHITE who's living in Philadelphia and working for Vincent Kling Architects and DON MACINNES who's working as a wood sculptor and living with his wife, Nicki, in Seattle, Washington.

I next got in touch with PHIL GULLEY who's living in Northwest Washington with his wife, Joan, and their two Maltese dogs (Phil insisted that I include the latter as part of his family). Phil is working at Catholic University as associate dean of students for student activities (What kind?) and seems to love his work and married life.

Our class continues to spread out. R. SCOTT MORELAND reports that after having received his Ph.D. in economics from Duke he's been, for the past three years, a lecturer in economics at the University of Warwick in Coventry, England. Moving over to the Continent we find JOHN RAY who asked that we inform our class that he and his wife have been transferred from Weisbaden to Kaiserslautern, Germany, where John is assigned to the Logistics Directorate (Munitions) at Ramstein Air Base. All the way on the other end of the world, and also in the Air Force, is DON BISHOP who is stationed at Kwang Ju, Korea, and working as the Chief of Information in charge of news and community relations. When he returns stateside in the summer he hopes to be teaching history at the Air Force Academy.

We don't want anyone to say that we neglect the other Armed Forces so we have JIM OLIVER in the Navy as a flight instructor in the A-7 Corsair II Aircraft in Jacksonville, Florida.

ALFRED E. HICKS filled out one of those Alumni cards to write that he received his M.A.

in History from Chapel Hill in 1971 and that he is presently coordinator of the Social Studies Department at John W. Neal Junior High School in Durham, North Carolina. Al also reported and I quote: "Glad to hear that 'Hony Bug' HONISS is in Carolina, still single in search of Miss America (but not Ms.) "Who's searching? John or Al? Better watch that comma next time.

Over in Houston, Texas, we find MARK SHAPIRO who was doing graduate work in biology until he realized he couldn't "hack" the lab. He and his wife, Laura, are now moving to Lubbock where Mark is planning to attend Texas Tech Law School.

What would a column be like without a report on the doings in New York? JIM O'CONNOR says "Hello" and reports that he's now working in the Promotion Department of "Scholastic Magazines" and that he occasionally sees DAN HADEN who is finishing up at Columbia Architecture. What is this monopoly of Theta Xi over architecture?

Also in New York City is ROBERT A. BOSE who wrote to say he's just been promoted to vice president of Hornblower Asset Management Corporation and that he serves on the Board of Directors of Morningside Heights Housing Corporation.

Over in Cooperstown, New York, Mrs. RICHARD SULLIVAN wrote that her husband is a medical resident at Mary Bassett Hospital and that they are enjoying their two sons. In upstate New York is the REV. CHARLES DINKLER who's the Episcopal chaplain to the Universities in Buffalo and the resource person for the college work program of the Diocese of Western New York. In the Ministry, as well, is JAMES PURDY who's been married to Emma Hodge Sarosdy since January 22, 1972, and been working as the assistant to the rector at St. Thomas' Church in Garrison Forest, Owings Mills P.O., Maryland. Is that somewhere out in the "sticks", Jim?

ED. NOTE: More news items arrived after Tom Safran's letter.)

DAVID AGERTON, a graduate student in ocean engineering at the University of New Hampshire, spent spring vacation installing their latest wave buoy amidst 5000 dive-bombing sea gulls at the Isle of Shoals. While on a project concerning underwater habitats, he stayed with HUGO LUKE in Seattle and with PETER MOORE '71 in San Diego. Hugo, a graduate student in oceanography at the University of Washington, has just returned from a cruise on which he tested his latest current meter. Believe it or not, his white Peugeot still lives! Peter was living it up, working for the "WRDC" of San Diego. David sends more news of his former roommate, GLENN GAMBER. Glenn has finally left his cottage on Coventry Lake and his life as a mild-mannered newspaper reporter to attend Syracuse Newhouse School of Communications at Syracuse. More recently he has been in touch with GENE NEWELL, who has returned home from studying literature in Britain on a two-year fellowship and has joined the army. Unfortunatley, Fort Manmouth is not up to Gene's speed, but at least, David says, he will be qualified as a toaster repairman upon finishing his electronics courses at Signal Corps School.

CHARLES SAGER has finished First National City Bank's training program and has been assigned to the surface transportation lending area where he will deal with major railroads and trucking companies.

JOHN ROBSON is currently in his third year of graduate school at Duke University. He is studying neurobiology and expects to receive a Ph.D. in anatomy sometime in '74. The Virginia Law School's "Trinity Three," all third-year members of the law review, recently held a farewell convocation. DAVE STEUBER is off to Los Angeles to serve as a judicial clerk for Federal District Judge Albert L. Stephens, Jr.; RICH BELAS will be working for the law firm Shea, Gould, Climenko and Kramer of New York until he must serve his Air Force commitment; and ROD DE ARMENT will be working for the law firm of Covington and Burling in Washington, C.C.

OSCAR HARM is still at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, and reports that he is expecting his Ph.D. next year. Oscar and Ann have become avid Bluegrass fans.

JOHN HAGAMAN is starting his fourth year of medical school at Columbia and trying to find an internship for next July. John, ALLAN GLADSTONE, JOHN SCHOLES, JOHN MOLDOVER, and STEPHEN HAMILTON are all sweating out New York summer and application forms together. John Hagaman writes that Emma Kirkley, former long-time friend and cook of Delta Phi, is now an operator for SNETCO.

WARREN TANGHE was ordained a deacon in the Episcopal Church on June 16 in the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, New York, after graduating from General Seminary in N.Y.C. with the degree of Master of Divinity. Starting July 1, Warren will be the curate of St. Michael's Church, Bristol, Rhode Island, 02809.

Born January 13, 1909 in New York City a son of Samuel C. Coale III and Helen Gale, he prepared for college at Williston and Suffield Academies before coming to Trinity for one year with the Class of 1934.

Joining the New Britain Herald in the early 1930's, he covered Berlin and became that paper's first full-time photographer. He left the Herald in 1945 to open his own specialized photography business and specialized in photographic nameplates as well as highly technical engineering photography. He had done considerable research in the sending of pictures to Mars and for Apollo assignments.

Mr. Coale was a member of the Berlin Congregational Church and a former president

Trinity Bows to Wisconsin at Henley

Trinity College's varsity heavyweight crew fell to a powerful eight from the University of Wisconsin in the second round of The Ladies' Challenge Plate at the 134th Henley Royal Regatta on July 5.

The three-quarter length loss ended Trinity's third attempt in five years to become the first American crew to bring The Ladies' Plate to the United States. A fine crew from Harvard University won that honor with a three length victory over defending champ D.S.R. Laga of Holland in this year's final.

Never had the Henley Regatta so many crews—over 250—and so many fast ones. Crews surpassed old records only to have another competitor set a new mark hours or minutes later. The Ladies' Plate was no exception. This year's 29-crew field was bigger and better than any previous in the history of the event (inaugurated in 1845), which ranks second only to the Grand Challenge Cup in age and prestige.

The Bantams arrived in England on June 24 and put their new shell, Hartford, in the water for a light practice on the Thames River that evening. In the next 10 days, Trinity oarsmen rowed almost 200 miles along the famed waterway.

Trinity's opening day opponent this year was Durham University. The contest was a rematch of America's New England and England's Midland Champions. The Bantams defeated Durham in the semi-finals of the 1969 Ladies' Plate but only after a comfortable lead was reduced by the fast closing English eight to a narrow one-third length victory.

There was no question this time as Trinity pulled out in front at the start and rowed away for a three-length victory. It was a good race for the Trinity eight. The tense atmosphere on Henley's opening day can be overwhelming for veteran international competitors and college athletes alike.

Trinity Coach Norm Graf later commented that "We have a young crew with only two seniors in our boat but they weathered the tension of the first day very well."

The winning performance followed pre-race plans. Sophomore coxswain

Andy Anderson of Northfield, Illinois, called a strong sprint from the start. The Bantams rowed at a blistering 49 strokes per minute pace for the first 200 meters and pulled to a one-half length lead. Trinity lowered its tempo to 40 strokes at The Barrier which is 5/16 of a mile down the course.

Anderson commented after the race that "We had one length over Durham at The Barrier so we eased up a bit. We rowed at 36 strokes for the rest of the race without sprinting at the end."

The following day's encounter pitted Trinity against Wisconsin's junior varsity eight which had stroked to a national intercollegiate championship in Syracuse, New York in early June.

The contest came on a day in which spectators lining the banks of the Thames River were treated to what was easily the largest number of record shattering performances in recent decades.

The Trinity-Wisconsin race was no exception as the Bantams rowed to The Barrier in 1:53 to tie a new record set only hours before by crews from Harvard University and University College of Dublin, Ireland.

Marks for The Barrier, Fawley (which is halfway down the course), and The Ladies' Plate Course record were each broken four time during the day.

Trinity again set a strong 49 strokes per minute pace at the start and had a 3/4 length lead over the Badgers at The Barrier. Through the heart of the contest the Bantams rowed at 39 while the Badgers stroked at a lower but powerful 36-37 rate.

Wisconsin moved up on Trinity and took a six-foot lead at the halfway mark in 3:13. The Badgers' Fawley time tied a Ladies' Plate record which had stood since 1949. It was subsequently bettered by three other crews that day.

Each crew took "pops" or short sprints in the middle of the race, but Wisconsin's junior varsity continued to widen its lead. With just four hundred meters left, the Badgers pulled out to a two-length lead for their largest margin of the contest.

The Trinity crew moved its pace up to forty in a last-ditch effort to catch the leaders. Two lengths were cut in half and then to less than a length but the gap was just too much to overcome.

Wisconsin's winning time of 6:41 was one of the fastest every recorded in The Ladies' Plate while Trinity's 6:44 was just two seconds off the old record which was broken several times during the day.

Coach Graf commented afterwards, "We raced a very fine crew from Wisconsin today, but I'm proud of our crew's efforts. In any other year our course time would be fantastic but this year's field of competitors has no equal in any previous Ladies' Plate."

The 1973 crew season which began on the Connecticut River in April with a 10-length win over Wesleyan came to an end on a warm July day at Henley-on-Thames. Though this year's crew had not achieved all they might have wanted, they had come a long way since the early days of the season. A 20-1 record, included a third New England Championship in five years, a good showing at the IRA Championships in June which included a consolation victory in the four with coxswain class and a second consecutive collegiate title for Dave Brown and Rick Ricci, and a trip to the world's most prestigious rowing event—The Henley Royal Regatta.

The Wisconsin race was the last one for Brown and Ricci in a Trinity uniform.

Seven other members of the crew will be back: coxswain Andy Anderson, oarsmen Von Gryska, Phil Wendler, Chad Mooney, Ted Berghausen, and Charlie Putnam and Curt Jordan who will co-captain next year's crew.

All three of the crew's spares will also return. Sophomore John Mezochow who doubled as back-up coxswain and team manager at Henley will return next spring along with oarsmen Burt Apfelbaum and Ben Brewster. The twosome got a taste of international rowing when they reached the finals of the pre-regatta tournament for spare oarsmen in coxswainless pairs. The Bantam pair defeated the Victoria Boat Club of Liverpool, England and Ridley College of Canada before losing a two-length verdict to a combination boat of the University of Wisconsin and MIT.

CORRECTION

It was incorrectly noted in the last issue of the REPORTER that Ron Duckett '74 was the recipient of the Robert S. Morris Track Trophy. Winner of the award should have been listed as Ed Raws '73.

800 City Youths Using Ferris For 2 Recreational Programs

Trinity's athletic facilities will be used to capacity by over 800 boys and girls from Hartford this summer in two separate sports and recreational programs conducted by the College.

For the fourth consecutive year, Trinity will host a program which is currently funded under a national grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and co-sponsored by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. The program runs through August 9.

Trinity is the only college in Connecticut hosting the program which includes 104 colleges and universities in 67 cities and 36 states, serving as many as 50,000 youngsters this summer.

Activities such as football, basketball, swimming, track, wrestling, gymnastics and tennis as well as modern dance and physical development will be offered with instruction given by professional coaches and collegiate and high school athletes.

This summer's program will also include a free hot lunch each day for all participants and will feature an educational program with lecturers drawn from the Hartford community speaking on such varied topics as the use of cosmetics, hygiene, drugs and job and educational opportunities.

Richard Taylor, assistant professor of physical education is head of this year's program, while Walter "Doc" Hurley, assistant to the principal at Weaver High School, will be liaison officer to the Hartford community.

As a preliminary, each youngster received a free medical examination given by physicians from the Hartford area. For the fourth year, a group of Trinity alumni doctors volunteered their services for the examinations.

The second program, which will run through August 17, is the Trinity Summer Recreational Program, sponsored by the Hartford Parks and Recreational Department.

The program is a "walk-in" for residents of the area and includes football, weight lifting, gymnastics and swimming. Additional activities will include the making of a film, scheduled trips to the beach, and visits to local points of interest.

Whitney M. Cook '72, a Trinity graduate assistant in the physical education department, heads the program.
